COUNTY NEWS IN REVIEW

Meat Strike

Cost of the Swift and company strike, now beginning its second month in South San Francisco, has been approximately $100,000 in payroll loss to date, it was estimated early this week by the Enterprise, semi-weekly South City newspaper. About 550 workers have been thrown out of jobs.

Deploring the fact that a settlement was no nearer than when the walkout was called July 31, the Enterprise proposed in its editorial columns that a secret vote be conducted among the strikers.

Cow Palace Saved

Fred D. Parr, president of Agricultural district 1-A, last week predicted that the "cow palace," largest building of its kind in the world, would house its first "Grand National Livestock Show" in October of next year.

The prediction followed completion of financial arrangements with the state whereby $130,000 in pari-mutuel funds were released to be used as sponsor's contribution for part of the $1,200,000 WPA allocation already approved by President Roosevelt.

Committee to Decide

Final decision as to whether Sunnyvale will or will not be selected as the site for a $10,000,000 air research laboratory is expected to be reached September 15 by the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics.

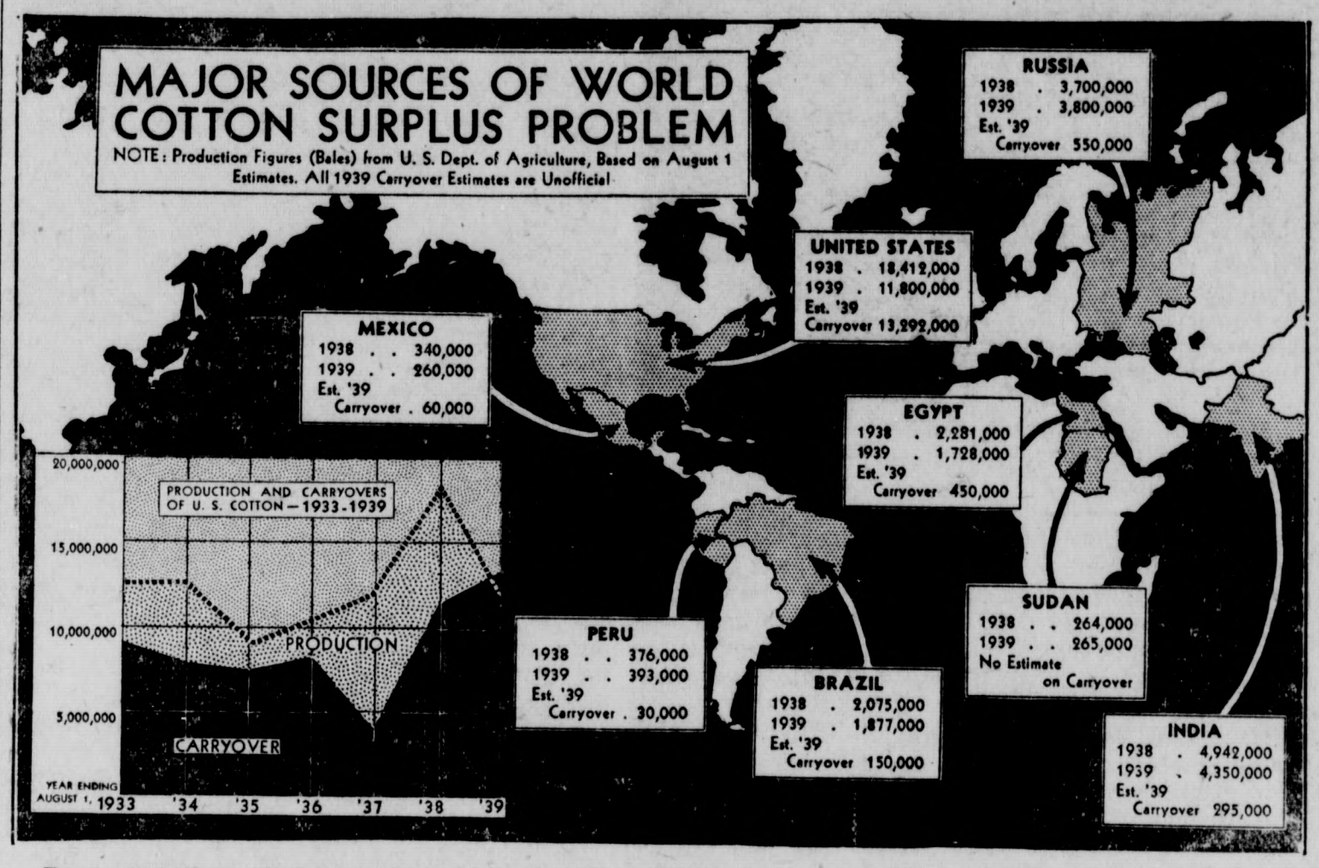
The announcement was made last week by Robert Hinckley, a member of the committee and former assistant to WPA Administrator Harry Hopkins. Thirty-four cities have entered bids for the research laboratory.

"Definite Progress"

This encouraging report was brought back to the Peninsula last week by the 30 officials and civic leaders who went to San Francisco to convince San Francisco supervisors that the Southern Pacific facilities should be extended further uptown.

Result of the meeting was the decision to request both the San Francisco and San Mateo county boards of supervisors to name committees of three who would create a "steering committee" of traffic experts to determine if it would be feasible to build an elevated train into downtown San Francisco.

Leading Cotton Nations Confer in Washington



Representatives of eight major cotton-exporting nations convened in Washington yesterday on invitation of the United States to pave the way for solution of the pressing world surplus problem. Latest available figures on each conferring nation's cotton problem are shown above, together with a chart indicating America's own problem. Most of the world surplus is held in this country, some 11,000,000 bales being stored by the government under loans to cotton producers.

How the European war would affect the cotton situation was not known early today.

A navy man took charge of America's new Caribbean Gibralter Friday when Admiral William D. Leahy, former chief of U. S. naval operations, officially assumed his new post as governor of Puerto Rico succeeding the retiring Blanton Winship.

SIGN INDIANS FOR S. M. COUNTY FIESTA

Fascinating Tribal Ceremonies To Be Demonstrated

Sunbeam and Skyeagle, two famous full-blooded Indians, were signed last week for the San Mateo County Fiesta and Rodeo at Bay Meadows, September 21-24, adding another thrilling performance to the program arranged.

Only a single generation removed from the primitive, colorful living of his forbears, Skyeagle is a direct descendant of Pontiac, famous chief who ruled the conclaves of the powerful Great Lakes tribes.

Although educated in both Indian and American schools, Skyeagle developed the inherent abilities which made the red man such a feared foe of the white man's invasion. He is one of the foremost performers of the fascinating Indian ceremonials, many of which he has performed

Daly City Asks County for Costs

Daly City has issued a formal application to the county for one-third of the cost of the electric traffic signal recently installed at Mission and Market streets, it was learned this week in the city engineer's office. The county's contribution will be $424.

The T. J. Martin Construction company has begun work on two new residences at Willits street, near Knowles avenue, each of them $4,000 homes, according to Julius F. Castelan, city engineer.

The city engineer also stated that sewer connections for the Colma planing mill were recently made at the corner of Bruno avenue and School streets, and a manhole was rebuilt for sewer connections at Knowles and San Diego avenues.

FAIR INVITES THREE GREAT CONDUCTORS

Iturbi, Coates, Stokowski to Appear With Symphony

Three symphony concerts featuring the world's greatest guest conductors all for one dollar- - -

Ten thousand available seats in the spacious California Coliseum - - -

This was made known today as the Golden Gate International Exposition went ahead with plans to present the 90 piece San Francisco Symphony orchestra in the three concerts with Jose Iturbi, Albert Coates and Leopold Stokowski conducting. And as a guest soloist, the Coates program will present Miliza Korjus.

Music lovers throughout the West hailed the announcement of the three music masters.

First off, the unprecedented offer of the three concerts for a dollar was acclaimed as an outstanding bargain by music lovers; the Coliseum has some 8,000 stationary seats available at this price, and has prepared to place 2,000 more seats in the arena or pit at the same cost. All series seats are reserved.

If a person elects, he may attend any one of the three concerts. Single admission seats are NOT reserved, however, and the sale will be conducted on a "first come, first serve" basis.

The initial symphony will feature Jose Iturbi, world famous composer, conductor and pianist, on September 13. The second to be held on September 20, will present Albert Coates, the British conductor, whose work is celebrated throughout the British Empire. With Coates, of course, will be the lovely Miliza Korjus, the girl who played the lead in the "Great Waltz." She has appeared in all the capitals of the European Continent and has been widely heard and accepted in this country. Stokowski will conduct the last concert on September 23. All of the concerts will be evening performances, beginning at 8 p. m.

Youth Speaks His Mind On War

On page four of today's paper a local young man writes a stirring letter giving his opinion of the European war. We wish every American could read his message.

Letters from readers are always welcome on the editors' desks. We invite more of them, and if they express points of general interest a section of the editorial page will be set aside for expressing opinions of Record readers.

D. C. Record to Publish Firemen's History

Starting September 27, the Daly City Record will publish as a serial story an informal history of the Daly City Fire department compiled and written by William J. C. Goldkuhl, E. W. Goldkuhl sr., and Edward W. Goldkuhl jr.

Introduction of the history starts in 1907 when the Vista Grande Improvement club appointed a committee to arrange for the organization of a volunteer fire department. The 7,500 word manuscript covers development and personnel of the department down to the current year. The authors dedicate their story "To those who serve—not for personal gain— but for the welfare of all."

The Record is now making arrangements with Daly City's six fire companies and the veterans to take pictures of their units which will be published along with the history.

As a courtesy to firemen, The Record is having scrap books made in which the men may keep serial clippings of the history.

Buick Announces Forty Million As Initial Outlay

Buick has an initial stake of $40,000,000 in the 1940 automobile market and will prime the economic pump during the coming manufacturing season to the tune of over two hundred millions, Harlow C. Curtice, president and general manager, told more than 300 newspaper, magazine and radio men at a press preview of 1940 models.

The improved and more extensive line of cars with which Buick will go to market in 1940 was given its world premiere at the press session.

Outlining an aggressive manufacturing program for the coming year in which it is expected this division of General Motors corporation will exceed last year by at least 20 per cent, Curtice described the new cars as "beyond any question the most marketable we have ever had to offer."

"We are launched upon what I confidently believe will be the biggest year in Buick history," the executive said. "We have set our sights on a 1940 output of 240,000 cars, domestic, representing an increase of 20 per cent over 1939 and a new high in the current phase of Buick expansion.

"Between now and the first of the year there is scheduled for production a total of 100,000 Buick cars, by far the biggest Fall output in our history. We have at this time an initial investment in the 1940 automobile market in excess of $40,000,000, representing commitments for production materials, supplies and wages for the next 60 days, and including the outlay of more than $8,000,000 for plant changes.

"On the basis of our manufacturing index it is estimated that Buick disbursements for all purposes during the 1940 model season will approximate $200,000,000, which may be considered typical of the automobile industry's contribution to the national economy."

Curtice was optimistic concerning the general business outlook, expressing the belief that continued improvement may be expected.

Buick is sold locally by the Belli Motor company, Belli block, Colma and Mission and Market streets, Daly City.

YES, HE GETS NO TICKET

Maintaining a speed of 40 miles an hour in this old 1904 Buick, Tom Sharkey, famous pugilist of former years, and his motoring party have demonstrated to a skeptical police officer on the San Francisco-Oakland bridge that the 35-year-old automobile is capable of meeting the speed and operating requirements of the bay span. So, instead of a ticket, the former ring champion gets the patrolman's congratulations on the fine performance of the ancient car.

Protect Yourself

Do you ever walk along a roadway and get an uncomfortable feeling as cars whiz by just a few inches away? Do you ever wonder what would happen if the driver should let his car move over just the least bit—or let his attention wander for an instant as he lit a cigarette—or if he did not happen to see you?

Well, it does happen all too often. The National Safety council says that more than 4,000 pedestrians were killed in rural areas last year. San Mateo county has had nineteen pedestrian fatalities since January first.

Here are three simple ways to protect yourself:

1. If there is a sidewalk use it. If not, step off the pavement when cars come by.
2. Walk on the left side of the road, so you can see the cars coming.
3. At night, wear white clothing. Carry a light to make sure you can be seen. Remember you can see the automobile better that the motorist can see you.

STATE FAIR

California went on parade with a flourish this week as the State Fair opened at Sacramento Friday. From September 1-10, proud Californians and envious out-of-state visitors can see with their own eyes why California still claims the name of Golden State.

Golden in wealth and opportunity, California won her right to that name nearly a century ago in the dazzling gold rush era. Still golden in the richness and variety of her productive resources, California justifiably keeps her nickname.

In the exhibits of her natural resources and agricultural wealth, there's a colorful panorama for every Californian, for agriculture is still a queen monarch of this State. California is a land of many soils and many climates. From this rich diversity comes the fact that in 1937 California led all other states in cash farm income, and last year surpassed all states in income from crops.

Yet not only agriculture, but California industry, too, tells its story during State Fair days. And remember, the pageant at Sacramento ranks as the leading one of its kind in the nation. Last year's attendance record attested its unsurpassed popularity, proving a great state can generally be counted on to produce a great Fair!

A Study of Parents' Problems

(This article is supplied by Teachers College, Columbia University, New York City, as a contribution to public information on education. The Daly City Record hopes it will prove of interest to readers.)

Parents are always up against new problems. Little Henry has a most distressing talent at raising Cain in novel ways. It is for such parents that Dr. Ernest G. Osborne of Teachers College, Columbia university, with the assistance of a research and clerical staff of the New York City Work Projects administration, has made an investigation of problems facing parents of six-to-twelve year old sons and daughters.

In the course of the study 75,000 questionnaires were sent out to parents residing in cities, towns, and hamlets all over the United States, Canada, and a few foreign countries. Parents of six-to-twelve-year-olds were asked to submit a list of questions which troubled them, and to present the solutions, if they had found any, to solve the problems.

Returns indicate that in almost 60 per cent of the cases parents were successful in working out the immediate problems facing them in smoothing the way for their youngsters. The remaining 40 per cent admitted puzzlement in degrees ranging from a flat "don't know what to do" to the more hopeful "have tried various methods to solve this problem but as yet not successfully." In many cases where parents claimed success, Dr. Osborne and his research workers found that replies indicated an increasing use of child guidance and parent education facilities set up by parent-teacher associations, schools, universities, and the WPA for creating more intelligent parent-child relationship.

17 Most Frequent Problems

Out of a list of some 500 different types of problems which parents had to face, the following 17 occurred, listed in order of frequency: general disobedience; dislike of certain foods; inability to make or keep friends; desire to go to movies too often; teasing brother, sister, or playmates; jealousy; lying; desire for too much money; listening to horror stories on the radio; providing sufficient vacation-time activities for city-bound children; curiosity about sexual questions; refusal to assume household tasks or responsibilities; fear of thunder, lightning, dogs and other animals; provision of sufficient family-groups recreation; development of useful habits and activities; sufficient play and living space for children; and dawdling at doing tasks.

Method of Approach

The range of methods in solving difficulties is quite wide.

Speak roughly to your little boy,
And beat him when he sneezes:
He only does it to annoy,
Because he know it teases.

We might mention that the chorus for this ditty was a "Wow! wow! wow!" to be sung by the infant.

There on the other hand is the remarkable forbearance practiced by the parent immortalized in the Willie saga:

Willie poisoned Grandmother's tea,
Grandmother died in agonee.
Willie's always up to tricks—
Ain't he cute? And only six!

We all know the parents who refuse to dust little breeches, and count on kindness and understanding and a certain amount of firm persuasion to influence a child. There are parents who regard the soap-in-mouth method as an indispensable aid for small Johnny in his moments of particular profanity. Going supperless to bed may be recommended as having quelled eight-year-old Milly, who refused to run errands.

Some parents who answer questionnaires are "not terribly upset over Jimmy's jealousy of his young brother;" other "have him psychoanalyzed to discover the deep-seated roots of the problem." The majority of the answers fall back on what is commonly called "horse sense." But all present the same problems often enough to indicate that they are almost universal in children of that age.

Pamphlets Based on 17 Problems

As a result of this analysis, Dr. Osborne and his WPA staff prepared a series of mimeographed pamphlets, written in simple, non-technical language, which are designed to aid parents in understanding the causes of such problems, in realizing that the trouble sometimes lies with the parent and not the child, and suggesting certain methods which may help parents meet these problems more intelligently. They may be secured by writing to Dr. Ernest G. Osborne at Teachers College, Columbia university, and enclosing one cent for each pamphlet desired, to cover expense of mimeographing.

More than 35,000 of these leaflets dealing with six-to-twelve-year olds have already been sold to individual parents, educators, and to school, church, and parent-education groups.

There is no read-the-paper-and-train-the-child method of solving difficulties, and those responsible for the issuance of these pamphlets would be last to lay such claims. Each child is an individual, to be treated as such by persons who know him best; and no conceivable solution can fit smoothly into 75,000 cases.

Youth Speaks His Mind On War

Dear Editor:

For the past week newspapers have headlined it, radios have broadcast it, and people everywhere have talked it—WAR.

I'm an average young American—age 24, married, have a child, a good job, and a comfortable home. War talk here, its actualities in Europe and consequent effect on us make me mad and remorseful. Mad to think that people are so thoughtless, so cruel, so utterly stupid as to murder and plunder wholesale in a day and age when such things, I hoped, had been relegated to the barbaric past.

I have some definite opinions on the European situation, the relationship of my country to it and my personal relationship to the entire situation.

I abhor war. Blood of young men running in the mud of a battlefield is certainly not a happy thought. Weeping widows and orphans at home do not present a peaceful scene. Destroyed industries, lost art treasures, exhausted natural resources, interrupted scientific and social development certainly do nothing to enhance human living. I HATE WAR!

In my opinion, no European controversy, whether it be an economic, social, or racial problem was big enough to warrant forfeiting all the finer things of peaceful living. This war will prove nothing, will settle no questions at stake, other than which military aggregations have the greatest power and cunning in killing, mangling, and starving their opponents.

Perhaps we do not know all the facts in the case. Perhaps the Treaty of Versailles was not morally fair. Perhaps some of the German people are divided under several different flags, but war

SALUTE TO LABOR

This week all America is honoring the man who works. We, too, wish to note this special holiday—thankfully observing the benefits we reap from his work—thankfully noting the improved understanding between the worker and all those who deal with him.

In commemorating Labor Day this week and marking another milestone in the road to a contented America, it is well to compare our lot with others not so fortunate. America's workers have much to be grateful for—much to view with pride and hope. Here, worker and employer alike share a mutual interest that contributes to the common welfare. Here, a man may progress as his abilities allow, sharing in the fruits of his toil, enjoying the wholesome liberties of recognition as an individual, enjoying the right to work.

It is well to pause, as another Labor Day takes its place in history, and consider the incomparable advantages we enjoy—advantages that each worker, each employer, every citizen throughout the land should guard as jealously as life itself.

With no attempt at idle flattery, we are eager on this special occasion to clasp hands again with Labor—to wholeheartedly unite with the worker toward progress, independence and security.

will do nothing but bring greater suffering to those very people.

Perhaps we are even now informed by biased European censorships and are not getting straight news, but it seems that German forces have invaded Poland—and whether they are justified or not does in no way lessen the suffering of the people involved.

No one can doubt the sincerity or integrity of Britain's Prime Minister Chamberlain when he said he had done all in his power to avert war, but his government must stand by pledges made to Poland and that a state of war did exist with Germany.

As for my country, I pray that we shall keep our neutrality. Not only in letter, but in thought, as President Roosevelt advocates. For obvious reasons our sympathies lie with the democracies, yet I know a number of German Americans socially and am associated with more in business. Most of them are American citizens and good people. No part of the European war is theirs. May the day never come again when these people (my friends and yours) are scornfully called "Huns."

We hope that our government will take all profit out of war. May you and I, and the rest of our fellow countrymen, refrain from grabbing profits for helping to stimulate or prolong the conflict now under way.

My paramount hope is that I, along with thousands of other young Americans, will not be called upon to be blown to bits on foreign battle fields. We cannot save the world for democracy nor for anything else humanly constructive. Our best efforts in war could only kill other young men whose desires and ambitions in life are similar to our own.

On one condition I will go, but resignedly. Most sorrowfully I would leave my wife, my child, and comfortable home for the filth of trenches, moans of agony from torn and mashed bodies of the wounded, the terrors of gas and air raids. However, if it appeared that a foreign dictatorship was gaining world power to the extene that vital interests and inherent liberties of this country were menaced, then I would go.

With all the manliness I can muster, I say it's a damn shame the war started. I hope it will be over soon, and I hope civilized man may become educated to the point where he will settle his disputes around a conference table instead of on a battle field—else this civilization of which we are all so proud will one day be blown from the face of the earth.

Yours very sincerely,
R. G. F.

Jaysee Students Return This Week

With registration for the fall semester taking place yesterday and today, San Mateo Junior college students already confront classroom work as well as an extended social and athletic program.

With the new science building on the new college campus ready for use, students are assured of one of the outstanding college science buildings in the state. The structure will also be used for a few English and history classes.

Student officers reported back in college with a well-rounded program of student-body activitiles worked out. Social events will probably start with an all-college picnic next week at Searsville lake, followed by the freshman reception dance that same evening in the college gym.

Jefferson Indians Open New Schedule

Jefferson Union high school football team opened touch practice schedule last week with an impressive looking lot of men turning out on the field. Coach Mathews said today that he believes that the ever-growing improvement noted in past years on Jefferson elevens may be upheld in the coming year.

From looking the Indians over, one can spot punters, passers, weight and speed among the ranks of veterans. The following experienced players will return to the Daly City champ plant:

Ends — Herb Poddig, Fred Chapin, Richard Pearson, Joe Becker and George Hickey.

Tackles — Don Hertz, Jack Faulk, Mel Dykeman, John Schauer and Frank Currier.

Guards — Bob Bannatyne, Lee Stephens, Bob Eldrup and George Debund.

Right halfbacks — Roy Guisti and George Winans.

Quarterbacks — Bob Christen, Les De Martini, Ray Garibaldi and Richard Ruper.

Fullbacks — Bob Capps, George Coen and Larry Christianson.

Coach Johnny has some outstanding newcomers on hand, four of whom he expects to crash into the first string picture.

At center will be Bill Rigler. The rest are backs—Lekoff, Razzari, DeMartini and Capps. The latter is a tough, 180-pound giant who will likely fullback it.

Supplying Jefferson with most of its weight will be Poddig, an end, who weighs 190; Chapin, end, 175; Hertz, tackle, 190; Faulk, tackle, 200; Bannatyne, guard, 175; Stephens, guard, 175. Rigler, probable first string center, weighs a mere 145.

Guisti and Poddig will form a formidable passing combination this season, which will be a constant threat. Guisti will also punt, along with Frates and Lekoff.

As usual, the Jeffersons will embark upon the toughest practice schedule offered to any P. A. L. team. They opened Friday with Poly high school; September 8 they play George Washington; September 15, Tamalpais; September 22, Vallejo; September 28, Mission, and October 5, Piedmont.

"TARZAN FINDS A SON!" IS NEW FILM OPENING AT DALY CITY THEATRE TOMORROW

Tree-Top Home Resembles Swank Penthouse

Practically all the conveniences of a Park avenue penthouse were incorporated in the amusing tree-top home of that famous jungle man, Tarzan, as seen in the new adventures of Johnny Weissmuller and Maureen O'Sullivan in "Tarzan Finds a Son!" opening tomorrow on the Daly City theatre screen.

The jungle penthouse, comprising a four-room "apartment" built of bamboo and palms, swayed precariously fifty feet in the air, attached to the limbs of three oak trees at Brent's Mountain Crags in the Santa Monica mountains. Ascent to the domicile was by way of a bamboo cage drawn up by heavy vines twisted rope fashion. The power was Queenie, a several-ton elephant.

The bungalow contained a bedroom, dining room, kitchen and play room for little Tarzan, all made of bamboo and palms. Orchids adorned clay jardinieres attached to the walls. Leopard skin rugs worth a fortune in civilization were strewn around like bathmats.

Companion feature on the new bill is "The Jones Family in Hollywood," starring Jed Prouty and Spring Byington.

Lose Votes Here

Seven thousand and nine residents of San Mateo county have suffered cancellation of their voting registrations because of failure to vote in either the primary election or general election of 1938, according to word received here today from County Clerk W. H. Augustus.

In 1938 the great register for San Mateo county showed a registration of 55,384. Today there are only 53,400. Besides failure to vote, registrations are cancelled by removal of the resident from the county or even from one precinct to another, by death, by conviction of a crime, by commitment to mental hospital, or by change of name other than by marriage.

Warning all citizens that the last date for registration is September 28, County Clerk Augustus announced that his office would be open through that date for all who wished to register, and that some 127 deputies had been placed about the county for the convenience of those who might not be able to call at the county court house.

Registrations may be made in Daly City at the city hall.

Sign Indians

before historians seeking to trace the origin of these weird rituals.

All of the exciting lore which Skyeagle acquired from his parents and grandparents has been passed on to his only daughter, Sunbeam.

Father and daughter have traveled the world performing their marvelous feats with bow and arrow, trick roping, riding, boomerang throwing and their tribal rituals.

The horse, "Chief Yellow Jacket," which Sunbeam rides was broken and trained by the girl and obeys Indian commands only.

Both Skyeagle and Sunbeam appear in authentic native celebration costume of their people.

Colorful Fiesta bumper strips may be had free for the asking at the Daly City water department.

ADEQUATE WIRING for ELECTRILIVING

Here is a practical common sense way to make sure of good wiring in your home. Plan your convenience outlets where they will fit in best with your furniture. Are there enough outlets to serve the lamps, clocks, radios and other electrical appliances we all use in this day of ELECTRILIVING?

Are these outlets in the right places so that you will not have to run long cords along walls? Planning house wiring according to furniture arrangement in each room is the practical way to get a good wiring job.

Trying to get light and operate a washer and iron from a light socket cheats you by causing voltage drop.

Light is dimmer and toaster slower if you do this in your kitchen. This double plug ugly is a robber.

Down goes electric pressure when a three-way plug is used. Causes lights to go dim or blink.

Avoid the make-shift of double and triple plugs in the home you are building or remodeling. Give your electrical contractor an honest chance to do a complete and adequate wiring job. Remember a low price on a wiring job like a low price on most anything is not always the best bargain.
